LAST LINES

'All the way home she was thinking, "What a wonderful dream I had! A really wonderful dream!"'	'We had an elegant tea. Mrs Barry used the best tea set. I felt special. Diana and I had a lovely time playing together. I have red hair but I am so happy.'	'Often, before I wake up, I dream I am still in the orchard at Birtwick Park, with my old friends Ginger and Merrylegs, and we are all together under the big chestnut tree.'
'He never saw the Ghosts again. And people always said, "Mr Scrooge knows how to celebrate Christmas, better than any other man on Earth." May somebody say that about us, too. All of us! And so, as Tiny Tim said, God bless us all!'	'So, that's the end of the story of my adventures on the Mississippi River. I'm leaving Aunt Sally and Uncle Silas soon. They've been very kind to me but they'd like me to live with them and send me to school. That isn't the life for me. I know because I've been there before!'	'Flowers don't grow in the Field of the Fullers, now. And the Sea-folk never come to the seashore. They go to another part of the sea.'
